

LAURA GOODMAN SALVERSON

CANADIAN AUTHOR

Represents the Ancient Art of the
Norsemen, the Saga Makers

A Dramatic Recital of Stories Old and New

BOOK REVIEWS

From "The Observer," London, England :

"The Viking Heart" --- A Canadian Epic worthy to rank with the sagas of Knut Hamsun. A novel of quite unusual quality and quiet power. A very real and tender-hearted book.

"Boston Transcript" :

"Lord of the Silver Dragon" --- Will give its readers a new understanding of the Norse Land. A very wonderful story, with a wonderful theme, and told in a wonderful manner.

"Canadian Press" ---

"The Viking Heart" --- One of the finest pieces of fiction produced by a Canadian writer. Worthy to rank with Knut Hamsun, Johan Bojer, and the best of Willa Cather ; is imbued with a sense of humour, high and noble courage not always in evidence in their work.

RECITALS

"Vancouver Province" --- Seldom has an audience spent a more delightful hour. Mrs. Salverson's portrayal of character is sincere and charming.

"Regina Leader" --- An intimate hour with a modern saga maker. The author has a rare sense of restraint and a lively sense of humour.

"Calgary Albertan" --- Recital (Central Methodist Church, Calgary) was no mean achievement. From first to last Mrs. Salverson gripped the attention of her hearers.

"Edmonton Press" --- Mrs. Salverson possesses the gift of moving her audience to laughter and to tears.
